

COUNCIL PASSES
LIQUOR ORDINANCE

Files Milk Ordinance for Public Inspection and Transacts Routine Business.

At their regular meeting the city council passed the liquor ordinance, which was drafted by the city attorney to conform with the state and national laws. The ordinance prohibits the sale and manufacture of intoxicants in the city and provides for penalties for violations of the law.

The council also placed on file for public inspection an ordinance regulating the sale of milk in Monett. This law is the one urged for passage by Dr. R. F. Whitlock, state veterinarian, who found on examination that cows in the vicinity of Monett were tubercular.

The ordinance as drafted by J. T. Burgess, city attorney, provides that persons desiring to sell milk in Monett present to the Board of Health of said city a certificate of health made by a state veterinarian or someone authorized by a state veterinarian, stating that all the cows in the herd of such producer have been tested with tuberculin within a year next preceding such application and that such cows are free from tuberculosis and appear to be otherwise in good health. Application must be made April 1 of each year.

The ordinance provides that the barns used shall be of proper size for the housing of animals and that they be provided with sufficient ventilation to provide plenty of fresh air. Barns shall be properly drained and kept clean and interiors shall be white-washed. Should a cow become ill, it shall be isolated from the herd and sick cows shall be reported to the proper city authorities.

Cleanliness of the person handling the milk is required and no one who has any communicable disease shall handle the same. All receptacles shall be kept clean and individual bottles for the sale of milk are required.

The ordinance also regulates the sale of skim milk and provides against adulterated or misbranded milk. It provides penalties for the violation of the ordinance.

Bills were allowed and the city officers filed their monthly reports. The report of A. Breithwaite, who audited the city's books for 1920, was received.

J. H. Wagner, fire chief, reported that the department was called out to the following places during January:—Second and Front street, defective flue (water used), 812 Eighth street (water used), 714 Fourth street (fire on roof) but no water used, 900 Third street (fire on roof, no water used) and 310 Fourth street, a false alarm.

The police department reported one arrest for misdemeanor, one for intoxication, two for lewdness and one for disturbance. Total fines collected amounted to $146.10.

Edgar Masoner, city light and water superintendent, reported that seventeen street lights had been replaced during the month of January, three new light services were installed, the fire bell repaired with a new 1 h. p. motor. New street light brackets were installed in the alleys back of Durnill's store, back of the post office and back of Floeth's store. Considerable repair work was done in the water department and 120 feet of 4-inch main was lowered on Eighth street. They also lowered the service manhole on Eighth and Scott streets. The power was off for five minutes on January 21, on account of a fuse burning out at the substation. Otherwise the service was good.

SANATORIUM NEEDS MORE BUILDINGS

Dr. S. A. Newman returned Tuesday from Jefferson City, where he had appeared before the committee on public institutions.

The Sanatorium has at present around 240 patients. Every year 5,000 people die in the State of Missouri of consumption, many of whom could be saved if there were more room at the Sanatorium to take care of additional cases.

The management of this institution is asking the legislature for one new building and additions to three of the buildings now on the grounds.

There is a long waiting list of patients waiting to be admitted for treatment, and the present number of patients at the Sanatorium could be doubled immediately from this waiting list if only the room were available.

One of the additions asked for is to the Buford building, and would be used for a dormitory for children. This would give room for forty more children—twenty boys and twenty girls.

An addition is also asked for the medical building.

A large dining room is also a necessity. An appropriation of $185,000 is asked for to take care of the building operations.

Dr. Newman said he believed the committee was favorable to the appropriation being granted, and would recommend to the legislature that the money be given.—Lawrence County Record.

A St. Louis Woman
Tells Her Experience

St. Louis, Mo. —"During my early married life I found 'Fertile Prescription' wonderful help. At one time I was in very poor health and became nervous and irritable. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it was not long until I was a well woman. I certainly feel very grateful for what this medicine did for me and am glad to recommend it."—MRS. WALTER NAUMANN, 4063 Taft Ave.

CAPTURED SOON AFTER BANK ROBBERY

Homer Bayless, a Farmer, Arrested For Robbery of Butterfield Bank Today.

(From Joplin Globe.)

Cassville, Mo., Feb. 4.—A lone bandit held up the Farmers Bank of Butterfield, six miles northwest of here, at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon and at 4 o'clock Homer Bayless, a widely known farmer of this vicinity, was arrested and is said to have confessed to the robbery. Bayless had $790 in his possession. Men who arrested him say he admitted taking $805 from the bank, having spent $15 for groceries, a haircut and shave in Cassville.

Cass Jeffries, cashier, and his daughter, Allene Jeffries, 17 years old, were in the bank when the bandit appeared. He "covered" them with a revolver and backed them up against a wall while he began a search for money.

Witness Couldn't Borrow Gun.

The railway station agent at Butterfield passed the bank during the holdup. Miss Jeffries waved at him and then pointed to the robber. The railroad man took the cue and hurried to a hardware store, where he asked the loan of a revolver. He explained that the bank was being robbed, but employees of the store did not believe his statement and refused to lend him the weapon.

After his experience at the hardware store, the railroad man passed the bank a second time, but the robber had completed his work and was hurrying to a wood nearby, where he had a hack in waiting.

The robber obtained the money from a cash drawer.

"I would like for you to leave me about $28 in silver," Jeffries said to the bandit, "as that is all I will have." "All right," the bandit replied. He left the silver.

Cashier Recognized Him.

After obtaining the money, the robber forced Jeffries and his daughter into the bank vault and fled. In his haste, he forgot to lock the vault and the imprisoned pair soon liberated themselves.

Jeffries, it is said, recognized the robber as Bayless, although he had a handkerchief tied across his face and his beard had been permitted to grow out. Jeffries told citizens of the town that Bayless had staged the holdup and a search for him was begun by posses in various parts of the vicinity.

From the bank he was trailed to the point in the timber where he had left his team and hack.

A delegation, consisting of Charles Ray, Elza Sullivan and Joseph England, started out from Cassville in search of the highwayman and accosted Bayless on the Cassville-Exeter road, about three miles from Cassville. He was in a hack. He stopped when the three men drove up.

They asked him if he had seen any bank robbers. Bayless expressed surprise at the report of a robbery and inquired into it in detail. Then the men pointed guns at him and took him in charge. He offered no resistance and no weapon was found on him. "You've got the wrong man," he told them when taken into custody.

Bought Groceries.

Members of the posse say Bayless admitted the robbery when being brought into Cassville. At the Barry county jail here, $790 was found on his person. Interviewers say he told them he obtained $805 in the hold-up. He drove to Cassville after the robbery, he is quoted as saying, purchased a bill of groceries and visited a barber shop, where he obtained a haircut and shave and then started home. His farm is situated four miles west of Cassville.

"I was hard up and couldn't get a dime," Ray says Bayless told him. "I had to have money."

Bayless is 30 years old and has a family. He is a son of A. P. Bayless, a prominent farmer near here.

The Feeny bridge over Shoal Creek is in good condition and road work in that vicinity is progressing nicely.—Fairview News-Herald.

Dr. A. Jones operated upon Mrs. Reynolds, of Ritchey, at St. Johns hospital in Springfield Thursday, for appendicitis. Mrs. Reynolds is getting along nicely.

FRISCO IMPROVING
ROUNDHOUSE YARDS

Large Force of Workmen is Laying New Tracks and Replacing Old Ones.

The Frisco has a large force of workmen busy in the round house engine yards making extensive improvements. Fifty men have been busy for thirty days and are not yet through.

They are building a number of new tracks and relaying the old tracks. The Frisco is having three Roberson Cinder conveyors installed. One is already in place and two are in process of installation. The cinders are hoisted from the pit by the conveyors and then are dumped into a car, the process being made by compressed air.

The six new stalls in the roundhouse have been completed for some time and are in use.

CALL FOR VERONA ROAD BIDS

The connecting link from the Aurora township state highway at the west, through Verona to a point about two miles east of Monett, is to be built at last.

Bids for the building of the same are advertised to be let on March 4th. BRADSTREET PREDICTS
MARKET IMPROVEMENT

New York, Feb. 4.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Improvement, slow and cautious, but nevertheless sustained, is still the keynote in the distributive branches of the leading apparel trades, which led in the turning of the trade corner in January, and are still in the van of what progress is visible in the general trade and industrial situation. Less decided progress or actual recessions, however, still characterize some of the big basic lines, as, for instance, iron and steel, coal and lumber, and in part an irregular tone to the general situation. Mail order trade is not equal to a year ago. Industry still suffers from the blight of unemployment, an aftermath of last year's lessened demand, and numerous reports of resurrections or of increases in time worked in some lines are partially balanced by reductions in improvements in others, notably the railroads, due to lessened traffic.

HAROLD PROCTOR DELIGHTS
MONETT AUDIENCE

Harold Proctor, the eminent American tenor, with supporting artists, furnished a high grade musical entertainment as the fifth number of the Lyceum course, at the Rialto Theatre Thursday night.

Mr. Proctor's singing was beautiful and he delighted his audience, who showed their appreciation by vigorous applause. Miss Rees, the violinist, gave some beautiful numbers, being a finished musician. Miss Lawrence was an excellent accompanist.

This is the last of the course as furnished by the Redpath Lyceum bureau. The next number will be given by the local Choral Club some time in the future.

S. E. Brown was in Aurora on business last Friday.
